2015 Primary Election Tuesday

Kentucky voters will head to the polls Tuesday to decide nominees from both parties for several state offices.

In the most high-profile race on the ballot, Republicans Matt Bevin, James R. Comer, Hal Heiner, and Will T. Scott are all vying for the GOP nomination for Kentucky's next governor. The winner will face the Democrat nominee—either Jack Conway or Geoffrey M. Young—in the November General Election.

These primaries have been especially contentious, with Comer and Heiner exchanging barbs and accusations the past few weeks, and Young taking legal action against Conway and other high-ranking Kentucky Democrats for alleged misconduct and claiming that Conway is not an eligible candidate.

Republicans Michael T. Hogan, a four-term Lawrence County Attorney, and Whitney Westerfield, a state senator in District 3, will compete for their party's nomination for attorney general. The winner will face Andy Beshear, the lone Democrat seeking the office, in November.

A crowded race has developed for state treasurer. Allison Ball,

Fire Dues Won't Go On Tax Bills

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

After plenty of discussion and an extremely tight vote, the Adair County Fiscal Court decided Tuesday night not to include fire dues for residents in the Breeding and Knifley fire districts on property tax bills.

The measure had been requested last month by members of both departments in hopes of increasing the number of due-paying members in their respective districts, as currently only about 25-percent of people pay, with the others opting instead to risk paying the $500 fine levied against those that don't pay if they require the departments' services.

All seven magistrates seemed to rely heavily on feedback from their constituents to determine their votes.

"I'm going to go with who put me here," District 2 magistrate Daryl Flatt said, adding that most people he had talked to didn't want the dues included on their tax bills. District 7 magistrate Terry Hadley echoed Flatt's sentiments, saying out of about a dozen people he had discussed the matter with, two were okay with the ordinance and the other 10 were strongly against it.

District 3's Sammy Baker disagreed, but referenced the same reason as Flatt and Hadley—the wishes of the people in his district. Baker said the majority of people he spoke to were in favor of the proposed ordinance. District 6's Greg Caldwell made similar remarks.

County Attorney Jennifer Hutchison-Corbin had prepared two ordinances for the magistrates to choose from. One of the options, the weaker of the two, included an opt-out clause that would allow residents in the Knifley and Breeding fire districts to have the dues removed from their tax bills, while the other would include the dues on tax bills as a mandatory payment. Knifley Fire Chief C.R. Drake said that he'd be happy with either option, even the one with the opt-out.

School Board Chooses Drug Test Company

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

The Adair County School Board met for a special called meeting last Thursday afternoon to approve a drug-testing vendor for the next school year.

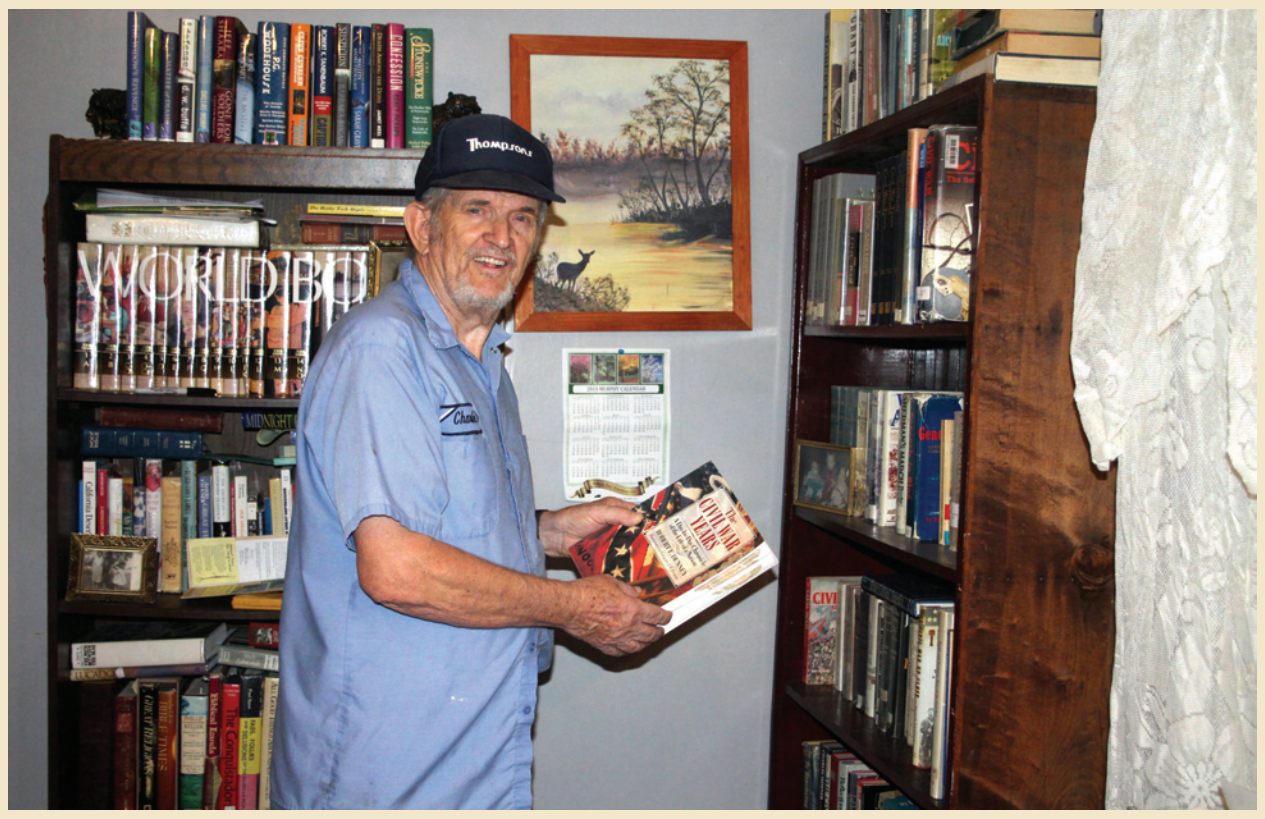

The committee that was established to recommend a vendor suggested that Way to Recovery was the best option, citing price and customer service as the deciding factors. According to Director of Pupil Personnel Robbie Harmon, Way to Recovery was the cheapest option by $3,000 per year for quarterly tests.

Terry Harvey moved to go along with the recommendation for Way to Recovery, Lisa Burton offered a second,and the motion passed 3-0 with Mike Harris abstaining. The tests will be instituted next school year for faculty, staff, and students that drive to school and participate in extra-curricular activities.

Bookworm: Charles Murphy's Lifelong Dedication To Reading

BY WES FEESE
EDITOR

Charles Murphy reaches up to the top shelf of a bookcase and pulls a volume into his possession. It's "The Civil War Years" by Robert Denney. Like seemingly every other book in the English language, Murphy has read it before. He says that the hardback in his hands is "pretty good."

A moniker like "Adair County's Biggest Reader" is by its very nature hyperbolic—impossible to prove or measure. In the case of Murphy, however, the name fits like awell-worn glove, and while it might be hard to prove, it would also be nearly impossible to disprove.

"I've read all my life," Murphy, 71, says. "I went to a one-room school and we didn't have a library, but I'd read anything I could get my hands on. When I was a teenager I took a whole encyclopedia set to the barn and read them all. It took a few weeks."

Two Adair County High School Students Are Named Rogers Scholars

Adair County students Nathaniel Franklin and Cole Schmidt have been selected by The Center for Rural Development to attend the 2015 Rogers Scholars program.

Nathaniel and Cole, both sophomores at Adair County High School, will join 63 high school students from Southern and Eastern Kentucky this summer for the 18th annual Rogers Scholars youth leadership program.

Rogers Scholars--The Center's flagship youth program--is an intensive one-week summer program that provides leadership and college scholarship opportunities for high school students in 45 Kentucky communities to build their skills as the region's next generation of business and entrepreneurial leaders.

The Weekly WORD

The Adair County Fiscal Court's decision Tuesday night not to include fire dues on tax bills brought to my attention a couple of issues that I think should be discussed more thoroughly. The first relates to the school of thought behind each magistrate's vote, while the second underscores a problem that I did not learn about until very recently.

First of all, let's look at what happened Tuesday. The measure that would put fire dues on tax bills for people that live in the Breeding and Knifley fire districts failed to pass. While I hate this for the fire departments, which apparently only collect dues from about a quarter of the population in their districts, I have a hard time finding fault in the reasoning behind the magistrates' votes.

Almost every representative on the court explained their district's constituents' views on the matter, and then voted in accordance with what their people—the people that elected them—wanted.

There are basically two different approaches elected officials may take when carrying out their duties and responsibilities as a leader of a democratic government. The first method involves trying to best represent the will of the people, which is the approach our county's magistrates took Tuesday night. Several magistrates made their decisions on the opinions of those in their district.

The other method of governance involves a more introspective approach to leadership. The people elect officials to make sound decisions, and they lead by choosing what THEY—not their constituents—think is best. Sometimes these decisions coincide with one another, in situations where the leaders and the people want the same thing. Other times a legislator might decide what he or she thinks is most appropriate even if the people want something different.

The vote Tuesday night could have very well been a combination of these approaches—where the magistrates agreed with their constituents. We don't know though, because almost all of the discussion centered on other people's opinions. This is neither an indictment nor an endorsement of the magistrates' actions; it's simply a fact.

I have no problem with Adair County's officials making decisions based on what the people want, because it's as democratic of a method as a representative government can be. It's important to remember though that sometimes, every now and then, "We the People" are woefully, incredibly wrong. I hope our magistrates recognize this fact as well, and don't ALWAYS feel bound to what the people want. They're elected to make decisions, and I'm glad that they value their constituents' opinions; I just hope they also trust their best judgment as much as they trust ours.

The other issue that I've been thinking about since Tuesday's meeting is less theoretical and more immediate and specific. I have no idea why, but apparently people just don't pay fire dues. At only $25 for the first property, and $15 for each additional parcel of land, this seems like a ludicrously inexpensive cost for fire protection. Our county's fire departments, especially the smaller ones in Breeding and Knifley, depend on this money to stay in operation, to protect its residents. If you don't pay, of course, you still get their services—they won't sit idly by while your house burns to the ground—but you'll be subject to a $500 fee.

I don't know the appropriate solution to this problem, but I don't see anything wrong with the proposed ordinance that would still allow people to opt out of their fire dues. It seems like it would encourage more people to pay while also not inhibiting anyone's liberty to cheaply snub their local fire department. This is not the ordinance that went to vote, and I wonder if it might have passed if it had, since it was the weaker of the two options. I also wonder if increasing the $500 fine to $1,000 might help, although I'm not sure about the legality of such a move—just something to think about.

To close, I'd just ask that everyone strongly considering paying your fire dues. These people volunteer their time and sacrifice their own safety to protect our community, and chipping in even a small amount like $25 a year will allow KAVFD and BAVFD to continue with this protection.

Ask Dr. Angelia

Precious People, what do we need? Really need? Obviously, we need water, food and a safe place to rest. Beyond that, I believe all we really need is Happiness. Life can be a misery if you aren't happy. As a child, I remember my elders saying, "You can't buy happiness." I think that is true. Something you buy might make you happy for a time – it doesn't last. So if you can't buy it, how do you get happy? Let's start with a smile. I think a sense of humor is a must to be happy.

The ability to seek and find humor and laughter in any given situation is a gift you give yourself, but one that takes work. Let's face it – life is funny with all of its quirks and contradictions, but it may not always seem so funny when you encounter a tough situation. However, the ability to gain a new perspective on a bad situation through humor is a real testament to our character. Look for the humor in everything and use it to gain new perspectives, to reduce stress and to make others smile. He that is of a merry heart has a continual feast. — Proverbs 15:15

Happiness also dwells in learning – which doesn't end after you're finished with high school or college. Life seems to be one long lesson plan of learning from the life experience lessons of the real world. The key to always learning is to not be opposed to it. When you're open to new ideas, you're exercising and enriching your mind. When you don't learn from both a positive or negative situation, there's no self-growth. Learning may be accidental or sought after, but as long as you're learning, you're gaining knowledge of the world around you and a better understanding of yourself – and this can all contribute to your happiness.

Learn to get in touch with the silence within yourself, and know that everything in life has purpose. There are no mistakes, no coincidences, all events are blessings given to us to learn from.

-Elisabeth Kubler-Ross

Resiliency is also a key to happiness. Learning and resilience go hand in hand because we learn from life experiences we encounter and then we must move on. This ability to pick ourselves up, dust off our back side and bounce back is called resilience. And believe it or not, the human spirit is more resilient than we might tend to believe. Resilience means living in the present as best you know how, even in the face of anger, hurt, or sadness, and taking whichever hands you're dealt and turning them into a learning experience. Yes, lemons into lemonade!

When you live in the past, you miss the joys of being in the moment. While it's true that you're shaped by your experiences, the key to being resilient is to not let the negative experiences paralyze you.

Past Traumas are stored from the developmental prospective of the time in which they occurred.

He who is not courageous enough to take risks will accomplish nothing in life.

-Muhammad Ali

Precious People, Life is scary. We never know what comes next or which direction we should take, especially when it comes to relationships, jobs or achieving our dreams. But sometimes that can be a truly freeing concept. Nothing is certain, so take risks. If you fail, you'll know that happiness is still possible because you'll learn from the situation and bounce right back. And if you succeed, your sense of accomplishment is twice as gratifying because you looked uncertainty in the eye and answered back with courage and faith. Without courage to face your fears or the possibility of rejection, you'll become stagnant and you'll limit yourself in opportunities for self-growth. Life demands lots of courage.

Everything you've ever wanted is on the other side of fear.

-George Addair

Precious People, if you need some help with happiness, Just Ask! Amen.

2016 Lake Cumberland Regional Hazard Mitigation Plan

The Lake Cumberland Area Development District (LCADD) is in the process of updating the 2016 Lake Cumberland Regional Hazard Mitigation Plan.

A Regional Hazard Mitigation Plan meeting will be held on May 21, 2015 at 9:00 a.m. central time at LCADD, located at 2384 Lakeway Drive in Russell Springs.

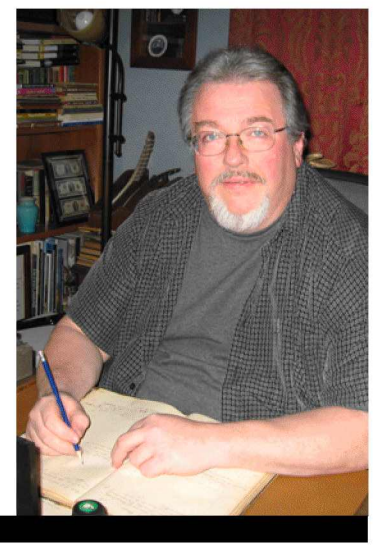

Meeting participants will review the scope of work, identify local planning teams, identify critical infrastructure, discuss and evaluate hazards and hazard areas, discuss recent disasters, identify existing emergency procedures, and identify recent and proposed hazard protection measures.

The geographic scope of the Lake Cumberland Regional Hazard Mitigation Plan includes 14 incorporated cities and all unincorporated land within Adair, Casey, Clinton, Cumberland, Green, Pulaski, McCreary, Russell, Taylor, and Wayne counties. The Plan, which is updated every five years, forms the foundation for long-term strategies to reduce disaster losses and break the cycle of disaster damage, reconstruction and repeated damage.

The public is encouraged to attend. Please RSVP to Martina Hadley at 270-866-4200.

Historic Adair County Courthouse has hosted many events and other business...

Our Historic Courthouse appears to many to be but an imposing architectural element in the midst of the Public Square. It is and has always been more than just a house of legal procedure and records keeping. Since the opening of this seat of justice, many activities have been hosted here. Funerals, weddings, meetings of all types, and entertainments for the community. For example:

The Lindsey Wilson Y.M.C.A. hosted a 'Tramp Convention' at the courthouse on 6 March 1915, a century ago. The courthouse was well filled that Saturday evening ti witness the proceeding of the Tramp Convention, in which the young men portrayed the life of the 'typical tramp', his ups and downs in life: How to avoid a biting dog, a unique way of getting a handout, and how to secure clothing, etc. It was reported the 'Stories of the Knights kept the audience in an uproar, any appearing to be delighted with the various stories.' The young men conceived the idea for giving the play and managed it from beginning to end. The costumes were 'hideous, and the faces and hands of the actors indicated that a bath would be conducive to health.' All proceeds from the play were to go toward the purchase for chairs for the hall at Lindsey.

Citizens and the Commercial Club Take Action in April 1915--A meeting of the citizens of the county was held at the courthouse in support of the proposed Dixie Highway, which was to pass through Adair County. A committee, composed of J.O. Russell, W.A. Coffey and N.M. Tutt, who were members of the Commercial Club, were to correspond with representatives in Nelson, Washington, Marion, Taylor, Russell and Clinton Counties with a view to enlisting interest along the line through the state, and of securing representation at the Chattanooga meeting on the Highway which was to take place on the 20th of April. As we all know, the Dixie Highway did materialize.

The Honorable A.E. Stanley, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in May 1915, spoke to a large crowd at the Adair Courthouse on Saturday afternoon, 29 May. His opposition in the Democratic primary, H.V. McChesney, spoke to a crowd at the courthouse on 15 July. Augustus Owsley Stanley, Democrat, was elected Governor of Kentucky in the ensuing November election and served one term, having defeated Edwin P. Morrow, of Somerset, the Republican candidate. Stanley had served six terms in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Rev. Frederic A. Hamilton, resident of Columbia, who was engaged in literary work, held degrees from Hanover College, Louisville Theological Seminary, Princeton University and Chicago Theological Seminary, delivered a lecture to the citizens on 'The Art of Living Together, And Some Other Matters', at the Courthouse, in May 1915. The main point of this lecture was a 'happy home' among other points. The lecture was 'scholarly and the audience well pleased.'

Rev. D.M. Walker, pastor of the First Christian Church, Stanford, Ky., addressed a large crowd at the courthouse on 1 August 1915 on the state-wide prohibition issue. The courtroom was crowded and many attendees had to stand to hear the speaker. Elder Z.T. Williams introduced the speaker, and at the opening, prayer was offered, closing with a song, 'My Old Kentucky Home,' and prayer by Eld. Williams.

In August 1915 the new Baptist Church was dedicated by Rev. L.C. Kelly, of Campbellsville. The building was so crowded that many could not gain entrance to hear the program. 'The people of Columbia and especially the Baptists, are proud of their church building, a magnificent edifice...' A large dinner was spread in the hall of the Courthouse and was genuinely enjoyed.

The Old Courthouse, not just court decisions and fines!

Attorney General Conway Sues Marathon Petroleum

Suit Alleges Anti-Competitive Practices Lead to Higher Gas Prices in Kentucky

Attorney General Jack Conway filed a lawsuit this week in federal court against Marathon Petroleum. The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in the Western District of Kentucky, alleges that Marathon engages in anti-competitive practices that lead to higher gas prices for consumers across Kentucky.

"For almost two decades, Marathon has been allowed to run rampant in Kentucky," Attorney General Conway said. "Marathon owns and operates the only refinery in Kentucky, and it maintains its wholesale monopoly by making retailers and other potential suppliers enter into contracts that are outright anti-competitive. This conduct harms everyone who buys gas in Kentucky."

As reflected in the complaint filed today, the Office of the Attorney General (OAG) believes Marathon violated state and federal antitrust laws by abusing the monopoly created when Marathon and Ashland Oil merged in 1998.

"I am tired of waiting for the federal government to do its job and act on this case," Attorney General Conway said. "There is too much at stake, so we've taken matters into our own hands. We are standing up for Kentucky consumers and proceeding with our own antitrust case against Marathon."

The suit alleges Marathon abused its monopoly, which led to higher gas prices for Kentucky consumers and businesses. The price disparity is most pronounced in the Louisville and Covington markets, where retailers are required to sell reformulated gas (RFG) during the summer months to reduce pollution emissions and improve air quality. Gas prices in Louisville are generally 20 to 30 cents higher than the rest of the state. When Louisville is compared to St. Louis, an RFG market of similar size in the region, gas prices averaged roughly 25 cents more per gallon in Louisville than St. Louis in the summer of 2014.

The Office of the Attorney General alleges that Marathon discourages competition by requiring independent retailers to sign unlawful supply agreements that eliminate wholesale competition, by forming exchange agreements with horizontal competitors that keep other suppliers from entering the Kentucky market, and by writing deed restrictions into the sales agreements of some properties sold by Marathon.

The Attorney General's investigation uncovered that some supply agreements Marathon enters into with retailers require retailers to purchase 100 percent of their RFG from Marathon, with penalties if the retailers fail to do so. The agreements also prohibit unbranded retailers from challenging Marathon's pricing.

Marathon executes exchange agreements with other major suppliers, which allows Marathon to supply branded stations with gasoline. Through these agreements, Marathon has limited competition. The competitors have no incentive to upgrade their refineries and supply infrastructure to produce and deliver RFG to Kentucky because Marathon is already supplying the stations with gasoline.

Marathon further reduces competition by adding deed restrictions to some of the property parcels it sells. The restrictions prohibit the purchaser of the property from selling gas or operating a convenience store. Some of the restrictions have an exception that will allow for development of a gas station ñ if the station sells only Marathon gas.

HISTORY OF THE MERGER & OAG INVESTIGATION

When Ashland and Marathon merged in the late 1990s, the Federal Trade Commission said one state bore watching because the merger could create a lack of competition at the wholesale level. That state was Kentucky.

Attorney General Conway first started investigating gas prices in Kentucky in 2008 after it became clear that Kentucky stations were charging more for a gallon of gasoline than retailers in surrounding states. The disparity was even more significant in markets like Louisville and Covington, where retailers are required to sell reformulated gas during the summer months.

In 2008, Attorney General Conway forwarded his investigation to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). It declined to review the merger. In 2011, Attorney General Conway spoke with U.S. Attorney General Eric Holder and forwarded the investigation to the Department of Justice's Oil and Gas Price Fraud Working Group. In 2014, when new commissioners were named to the FTC, Attorney General Conway once again asked for a review of the merger and its impact on Kentucky.

"I am tired of waiting for the federal government to do its job and act on this case," Attorney General Conway said. "There is too much at stake, so we've taken matters into our own hands. We are standing up for Kentucky consumers and proceeding with our own antitrust case against Marathon."

Summit Manor, Relay for Life Speak to Chamber

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

A brief May meeting of the Columbia-Adair County Chamber of Commerce was held inside Cranmer Dining Center Tuesday afternoon, with two separate, but very important groups addressing the crowd in attendance.

First on the docket was the month's corporate sponsor, Summit Manor. Marcella Hodges, the administrator at Summit Manor, pointed out that the facility employs approximately 125 workers, providing a large boon to the local economy, but stressed that the true purpose rested with its residents.

"We want to focus on what the people there can still do, not the things they can no longer do," she said.

Hodges informed the crowd that this week was National Nursing Home week, and detailed some of the upcoming activities planned to celebrate.

"We're bringing in lots of community groups and planning several activities," she said. "There will be cookouts, games, and other fun things that give both our staff and our residents a chance to interact with the community as much as possible. These folks really appreciate everything that people do for them."

After Hodges finished her address, Ellen Zornes introduced the next speaker, Peggy Lawson, who was there on behalf of Adair County Relay for Life.

"We've had other chairpersons over the years," Zornes began. "But Peggy has staying power. She's been with us for 17 years, and has served not only Adair but other surrounding counties as well."

Lawson began by recognizing the cancer survivors in attendance.

"This is what Relay for Life is," she said, gesturing to those standing. "It's a celebration for another birthday, another year with family."

Lawson informed the crowd that, since 1996 when Relay for Life began in Columbia under the leadership of June Parson and Sue Stivers, the annual event has raised more than $900,000 for cancer research. After a peak year of well over $100,000, however, last year's event raised just $56,000.

"We have to bring that number up," Lawson urged the Chamber.

She continued, publicizing the June 19 date set for this year's Relay, and pointing out the traditional ceremonies, including the Survivor's Lap and the luminary service. From there, she turned over the microphone to Bill Hawkins, a representative for the American Cancer Society and longtime Relay for Life volunteer.

"I want to thank you guys for being involved in Relay for so many years," Hawkins began. "Through research programs and services funded through Relay, we are seeing 11 million more Americans celebrate birthdays each year after being diagnosed with cancer."

Hawkins shared a phone number, 1 800 227 2345, which he said is a year round, 24-hour call center for anyone with questions about cancer, who may have recently been diagnosed, who wants to learn more about their treatment options, or who simply needs someone to talk to about the dreaded disease.

"It's there for anyone who may need it," he said of the number, pointing out the widespread effect of cancer. "We all have a bond in this room that I wish we didn't share."

In other news at Tuesday's meeting, the following events were announced:

•The annual Chamber of Commerce golf scramble, to be held today, May 14 at the Pines at Lindsey Wilson. Sign up is $30 and the event will tee off at 1 p.m.

•The Trail Town trial run to be held Saturday beginning at the courthouse around 8 a.m.

•Kentucky Life, a KET show, will feature Adair County during its May 23 broadcast. The program begins at 7 p.m.

•June Dairy Day, scheduled for June 26 and 27.

2015 Crusade for Children

BY BRANDON LEWIS

It's that time of year again for the 62nd annual WHAS-Crusade for Children. The crusade was established in 1954 by WHAS-TV. It raises money for agencies, schools, and hospitals to better the lives of special needs children. Special needs is defined as physical, mental, emotional and medical needs. Since the crusade was established, over $160 million has been raised. Fire departments raise over 50-percent of the money each year by staging road blocks and other events. Millions of children have benefited from this program.

The money raised in Columbia-Adair County comes back to our county 100-percent, dollar for dollar, in the form of grants. Grants are made to non-profit agencies, schools and hospitals that help children up to age 18. These grants can be used to fund specific programs or purchase equipment that provide direct benefits to the children.

This year, the Columbia-Adair County Fire Dept. will be dedicating their efforts for this great charity in the memory of Tony Grider. Tony's family will be attending the live broadcast with a special presentation to Tony's sons Jacob and Jordan.

Columbia-Adair County Fire Dept. has been participating in the crusade since 1963 and has raised over $1 million. We will begin our roadblocks on Sunday, May 31 at 8 a.m. until noon. Firefighters will also be out on roadblocks Friday, June 5, and for half a day Saturday, June 6. The live remote will be held in Campbellsville at the fire training center by the Charles "Sparky" Sparks Reflection Park Saturday afternoon. The remote will be broadcast live with WBKO-13. We would appreciate your continued support for this year's Crusade for Children.

Indiana University Maurer Law Student Awarded Prestigious Peggy Browning Fellowship

The Peggy Browning Fund has awarded a 10-week summer fellowship to Paige Coomer, a first- year student at Indiana University Maurer School of Law. She will spend the fellowship working in the Legal Department of the United Mine Workers of America in Triangle, VA. The application process is highly competitive, and the award is a tribute to her outstanding qualifications.

In 2015, the Peggy Browning Fund will support nearly 80 public interest labor law fellowships nationwide. With more than 400 applicants from 150 participating law schools, securing a Peggy Browning Fellowship is not an easy task. Peggy Browning Fellows are distinguished students who have not only excelled in law school but who have also demonstrated their previous educational, work, volunteer and personal experiences. Paige Coomer certainly fits this description.

Paige is an alumna of Centre College, where she graduated Phi Beta Kappa. Her longstanding interest in serving the needs of underprivileged citizens led her to pursue a degree in law. A particularly transformative experience for Paige occurred during her internship with Kentuckians for the Commonwealth, where her work with coal miners in Eastern Kentucky developed her upon graduation, Paige hopes to build upon her past work with miners, activists, and disadvantaged citizens by using the law to advocate for traditionally underrepresented groups.

At IU, Paige is actively involved with public interest groups and serves as a 1L Representative research assistant to study the impact of deep sea mining on Pacific communities. In her spare time she enjoys journaling, modern dance, and reading (mostly non-law related) fiction.

The Peggy Browning Fund is a not for-profit organization established in memory of Margaret A. Browning, a prominent union-side attorney who was a member of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) from 1994 until 1997. Peggy Browning Fellowships provide law students with unique, diverse and challenging work experiences fighting for social and economic justice. These experiences encourage and inspire students to pursue careers in public interest labor law.

SKYCTC To Award Credentials At Spring Graduation Ceremony

Southcentral Kentucky Community and Technical College (SKYCTC) will honor 536 graduates receiving 2,056 credentials at the College's Commencement Ceremony on Friday, May 8, 2015. The ceremony will be held at the Southern Kentucky Performing Arts Center (SKyPAC) and will begin at 6:00 p.m.

"We honor each of our graduates for the hard work they have put forth to achieve their educational goals. We also pay tribute to the family and friends for their great support to the graduates, as well as to the faculty and staff of SKYCTC for their commitment to student success," states Dr. Neal.

Southcentral Kentucky Community and Technical College is one of the 16 colleges that comprise the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS).

The Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) will honor more than 7,150 candidates, receiving nearly 14,000 credentials, for graduation this spring in 16 college ceremonies across the state.

For most Kentuckians, higher education begins at the Kentucky Community and Technical College System. Our statewide system of 16 colleges, more than 70 campuses and 127,211 students is a critical component to transforming the state's economy by providing citizens with the education and training needed for high growth, high wage careers. discuss legal options pertaining to the company that installed Adair County Primary Center's geothermal heating and cooling units, which have proven prone to leaks and is susceptible to contamination.

No action was taken on the matter Thursday, but Supt. Alan Reed said this week that all options are still on the table and the matter is far from closed.

"We're still pursuing avenues and options relating to anybody that could have been involved," Reed said.

•The board voted to waive fees for use of Adair County Middle School's gymnasium by Golden Rule Wilson Auction Company. Harris made the motion, Burton seconded, and the motion passed unanimously, 4-0.

•The position of athletic director at Adair County Middle School was approved with a stipend of $3,000 per year. Harris made the motion and the item passed, 4-0.

•The board voted to approve the continuation of a dropout prevention specialist stipend of $5,000.

All board members were present for the meeting with the exception of Quinn Lasley.

•Primary Election

Kenneth Churchill Imes, and Jon Larson are all seeking the Republican nomination, while the foursome of Neville Blakemore, Jim Glenn, Daniel B. Grossberg, Richard Henderson, and Rick Nelson will vie for the Democrat nod.

Incumbent Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes seeks reelection after failing in last year's bid at the U.S. Senate, when she lost in the General Election to Mitch McConnell. Grimes faces opposition within her own party from Charles Lovett, and the winner will run against Republican Stephen L. Knipper, who is unopposed in the primary.

Two Republicans—Richard Heath and Ryan F. Quarles—square off for the commissioner of agriculture nomination, a seat that will open up due to Comer's decision to run for governor instead of reelection. Democrat Jean-Marie Lawson is unopposed in the primary and will face the winner in November.

The final state race, auditor, features a Democrat incumbent, Adam Edelen, and one unopposed Republican challenger, Mike Harmon. With no interparty competition for either, both will move on from the primary and have their names on the ballot for the 2015 General Election.

•Fire Dues

"We will accept that option because a lot of people will still pay," Drake said.

Judge-Executive Mike Stephens clarified that neither measure would be an added tax, only a fee for fire dues that would be included on a tax bill.

"It's only collecting for them through the Sheriff's [Dept.]," Stephens said. "It's a bookkeeping thing."

Eventually, Baker moved to accept the option with no opt-out clause, and Caldwell offered a second. On a roll call vote, Stephens, Harold Burton, Baker and Caldwell voted for the ordinance, while Flatt, Billy Coffey, Perry Reeder, and Hadley voted against. When the tie was announced, Stephens withdrew his vote and the motion died.

Firefighters in the audience asked if the court would vote on the other option, and Stephens opened the floor for a motion, but no one bit. Baker said that the other option wouldn't pass either.

In other business at Tuesday's meeting:

•The court gave first reading to the new budget for the upcoming 2015-2016 fiscal year, totaling more than $5.3 million. Specifically, $1.6 million is included in the general fund, $1.7 million in the road fund, and $1.3 million for the jail. The other 13-percent of the money is divided amongst LGEA, Forest Fire, Parks and Recreation, 911, and the Green River Animal Shelter.

Treasurer Barry Corbin said that the budget had been reviewed more thoroughly than any in his eight years with the county. The most notable change from last year was a cut of almost $500,000 from the road fund, a direct result of the expiration of the gas tax. Stephens was confident some of that money might be recovered.

"It doesn't mean we aren't going to get it," he said.

•The court voted in favor of switching financial officer Gayle Cowan and Deputy Judge Holly Grimsley from hourly to salary pay. Each will remain in the same budgeted pay grade—$38,000 annually—although Flatt noted that last year Cowan made just more than $36,000 being paid by the hour, and voiced his support of keeping the hourly system. Billy Coffey made similar remarks in favor of keeping the scale as it is.

Reeder moved to accept Stephens' recommendation for the change to Cowan's pay, Caldwell offered a second, and the motion passed 5-3, with Flatt, Coffey, and Baker voting in opposition. The motion for Grimsley passed 6-2, with Baker switching his vote because he wanted Cowan and Grimsley's methods of payment to be the same.

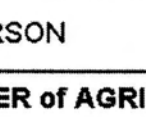

•The court voted in favor of subscribing to the L.E.A.D.S. software program, which offers a method of tracking and monitoring pawn shop transactions in order to track down stolen merchandise. Sheriff Harrison Moss said that a 30-day trial run with the software had been successful.

"It's a very good program," Moss said. "It's nationwide."

The cost to subscribe is $1,200 per year. Despite not having anything in writing, a unanimous, 7-0 vote was taken to constitute "first reading" of the subscription, and a final vote will be taken at next month's meeting.

All magistrates were present for the meeting.

Kentucky has a state bird, fish, flower, tree, song and, apparently, an insurance company.

While most folks in Kentucky probably can't name our state dance (it's clogging), one thing they do know is who to trust when it comes to insurance: Kentucky Farm Bureau. That's because there's a Farm Bureau agent in every county across the commonwealth to handle all your insurance needs.

Lindsey Wilson College Bonner Scholar seniors and their advisers gather Wednesday night in front of the Emily Hundley President's Home, following a ceremony that recognized the class' more than 33,000 of community service to the region.

Lindsey Wilson College Bonner Scholar Seniors' Impact On Region Recognized

The Lindsey Wilson College community recognized the senior members of its Bonner Scholar Program Wednesday night at the Emily Hundley President's Home.

Over the last four academic years, the 17 Bonner Scholar seniors combined to give more than 33,000 hours of service-learning to the region, according to Amy Thompson-Wells, LWC director of civic engagement and student leadership and co-director of the Bonner Scholar Program. The gross value of that service in labor is about $256,000, Thompson-Wells said.

Created in 2005-06 in partnership with the Bonner Foundation of Princeton, N.J., the LWC Bonner Scholar Program aims to transform the lives of students, the life of their campuses, their local communities and the world through service and leadership.

This year's seniors were: Amber Clark of Kennesaw, Ga.; Heather Franks of Monticello, Ky.; Brooke Harmon of Columbia; Jonathan Joseph of Louisville, Ky.; Lauren Kinser of Elizabethtown, Ky.; Katie Koper of Central City, Ky.; Lois Jean Lanham of Lebanon, Ky.; Carrie Mason of Canmer, Ky.; Alison McGaughey of Mount Eden, Ky.; Nicole Pierce of Eubank, Ky.; Wendy Price of Berea, Ky.; Will Rich of Columbia; Bailey Scott of Auburn, Ky.; Brenna Smith of Corbin, Ky.; Dariann Smith of Columbia; Lauren Thompson of Russell, Ky.; and DeResha Walkup of Columbia.

LWC will award a total of 210 undergraduate and graduate degrees its 101st commencement ceremony, which will be held at 10 a.m. CT Saturday, May 9, in Biggers Sports Center, 360 Spickard Drive.

Kentucky Secretary of the Cabinet for Health and Family Services Audrey Tayse Haynes, who is an Adair County native and Lindsey Wilson alumna, will deliver the spring commencement address. Haynes will also receive an honorary doctorate from LWC, as will trustee emeritus Tom Carter of Danville, Ky.

Following commencement ceremony, the Lindsey Wilson National Alumni Association will hold a reception for graduates and guests in Roberta D. Cranmer Dining & Conference Center, 430 Helen Flatt Drive

The ceremony will be shown on closed-circuit television in the Norma & Glen Hodge Center for Discipleship, 402 Helen Flatt Drive, and it will be carried lived on DuoCounty Channel 2 and via on the Lindsey Wilson Stretch Internet channel: http://bit.ly/lwcstretch.

•Rogers Scholars

"The Rogers Scholars program gives high school students an experience of a lifetime to grow their leadership skills while learning how to become more community-minded," said youth programs coordinator Delaney Stephens. "Each graduate earns access to exclusive college scholarship offers from some of the state's top-ranked colleges and universities upon completion of a required community service project."

The 2015 Rogers Scholars program will be held June 21-26 and July 12-17 on the campus of Lindsey Wilson College in Adair County. There is no tuition charge to attend the program and lodging and food are provided free of charge to participants.

Nathaniel is the son of Dan and Melinda Franklin of Columbia. Cole is the son of Chris and Rebecca Schmidt of Columbia.

Since 1998, 996 high school students have graduated from Rogers Scholars, and potential scholarships valued at more than $7.2 million have been offered to graduates by 17 partner colleges and universities.

For more information about the Rogers Scholars program, visit www.centeryouthprograms.com or call youth programs coordinator Delaney Stephens at 606-677-6000.

Columbia-Adair Community Garden

Not Familiar with the Community Garden – Here are the Basics

The Columbia-Adair County Community Garden is designed to bring together individuals, families, businesses, and civic organizations for the purpose of growing and sharing fresh food. Community building and education are also important missions. The garden is conceived of as a place for positive interactions between community members of all ages and walks of life bonded together by a common belief in importance of locally grown, organic food and an interest in learning more about gardening. Anyone who would like to assist with this important work is invited to join us as a volunteer and/or as garden staff member.

The Community Garden is located at the intersection of West Guardian and Monroe Streets (directly behind the Adair County Food Pantry) on land owned by the Columbia United Methodist Church. The location is convenient, being located two blocks from the courthouse, and excellent for gardening with a fertile soil, good light exposure, and access to city water.

There are two types of plots at the garden; raised beds and conventionally tilled plots. The conventional plots are used 'communally.' They are planted and maintained by volunteers and the harvest is shared with the community via the food pantry and/or the Farmer's Market on the Square. Lower income families and elderly are our primary target groups for food donation. The raised beds are designed primarily for 'private' use and they can be rented by individuals, families, or groups of gardeners, termed 'garden subscribers.'

USDA Rural Development Announces Funds Available for Housing Loans

USDA Rural Development State Director Tom Fern has announced the availability of federal funds for housing loans and that applications are being accepted for the low- and very-low income citizens in rural Kentucky.

"USDA mortgage loan programs are life-savers for so many rural residents who have been unable to purchase their own homes," said Fern. "The Single Family Housing Direct Loan program helps improve quality of life and economic opportunity in rural Kentucky, serving our most vulnerable residents ñ low-income families, the elderly and persons with disabilities."

In 2014 alone, USDA helped more than 5,000 rural Kentucky residents become homeowners by investing more than $521 million in loans, grants and technical assistance that provided affordable, safe housing for rural Kentuckians.

"Affordable home financing creates ladders of opportunities to help families grow and thrive," said Fern. "The multitudes of homeowners assisted through USDA programs generate tremendous benefits that ensure rural America remains a vital and prosperous place to live, work and raise a family today and in the future."

The lack of access to decent, safe and affordable rural housing and difficulties obtaining mortgage credit severely limits options for rural citizens. Rural Development offers direct and guaranteed single-family housing loans to eligible rural residents. Applicants may obtain 100 percent financing to purchase an existing dwelling, purchase a site and construct a dwelling, purchase newly constructed dwellings located in rural areas. Eligibility is based on household income, repayment ability, and credit history.

Through its Direct Loan Program, USDA assists low- and very-low income applicants obtain decent, safe and sanitary housing in eligible rural areas. Applicants must meet income eligibility for a direct loan. Please contact your local RD office at (270) 843-1111 Ext 4 to ask for additional details about eligibility requirements. A map of Rural Development office locations in Kentucky, as well as contact information, is available online at http://www.rd.usda.gov/files/KY_RD_Offices.pdf.

The Guaranteed loan program provides homeownership loans through approved lenders. Additional information on the USDA housing programs can be found at the agency website: http://www.rd.usda.gov/programs-services/single-family-housing-guaranteed-loan-program/ky.

President Obama's plan for rural America has brought about historic investment and resulted in stronger rural communities. Under the President's leadership, these investments in housing, community facilities, businesses and infrastructure have empowered rural America to continue leading the way ñ strengthening America's economy, small towns and rural communities. USDA's investments in rural communities support the rural way of life that stands as the backbone of our American values.

Trail Town Trial Run

Columbia and Adair County's first step to become a Trail Town as part of the Kentucky Trail Town Initiative through the Kentucky Office of Adventure Tourism in the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet is here. The trial run will take place this Saturday, May 16 for up to 50 kayaks and canoes on Russell Creek as we begin the Adair Paddle Trail. Pre-registration is closed but you can still be part of this exciting trial run through late registration at the historic Adair County courthouse this Saturday, May 16 at 8:00 a.m.

Each pre-registered participant will receive the official Paddle Adair Trial Run T-shirt, boat decal, marine whistle and will be entered in the drawing for an Old Town Vapor kayak, paddle, life vest and a dry box. Late registration participants will be entered in the drawing but will be on a first come first served basis for the T-shirt, decal and whistle. The Coast Guard will also be on hand at the put in to register your kayak or canoe. We will be shuttling paddlers and their boats from the take out back to the put in. If you don't kayak but still want to be part of this event, no problem…we need volunteers. Just show up at the courthouse that morning.

The trial run trail has to be a designated trail for that activity only and begin or end within the city limits. The creek is our only trail that meets the criteria. Once we finish our trial run and all the necessary assessments, then we (Columbia-Adair County) will be eligible for certification as a Kentucky Trail Town and will begin to map and develop other unique trails that our town and county offer such as hiking, biking, horse back riding and off road riding.

Trail Town is a national program that works through each state to help small communities develop and take advantage of adventure tourism opportunities in their area through a designation and assistance program that will help these communities connect the dots for travelers and guide them to trails, food, lodging, campgrounds, museums, entertainment and other services that will aid business for small communities and add more tourism opportunities for the state.

Each Trail Town decides what approaches it wants to take to tie into existing trail systems and other services that trail users need. It provides an opportunity for Trail Town communities to work together and share ideas while at the same time developing their downtowns and Main Streets for increased tourism dollars.

The Office of Adventure Tourism will provide guidance to these communities on issues such as trail development and signage, and how other communities have been successful by linking trails and services.

Once a community receives the Trail Town certification, the Tourism, Arts and Heritage Cabinet, the Department of Travel and Tourism and Office of Adventure Tourism will help promote and market these communities and the services being offered. They will be highlighted on maps, websites, visitor's guides and other state promotional material.

Our surrounding counties are also taking advantage of the Trail Town initiative to boost their tourism and community well being as well.

Jenny Hughes during the job club seminar at ACHS last Wednesday.

Senior students at Adair County High School participated in a job club seminar Wednesday, May 6 with staff from the Kentucky Career Center and College and Career Readiness Counselor, Robin Loy.

Jenny Hughes, Leslie Davis, Laquita Goodin, and Elizabeth White spent the morning registering students and assisting students with building resumes through the career center website. They also discussed interviewing tips, phone etiquette, dressing the part, and training opportunities available through the Kentucky Career Center in high need job sectors.

Students were able to spend the afternoon with Mr. Andy Watts from Wal-Mart participating in mock interviews. Mr. Watts practiced various interview scenarios with students and gave them feedback.

These students from Adair County, under the instruction of Ms. Cayce Davenport, were recognized: Destiny Wright: 2nd in Sculpture; Tara Pierce : 2nd in Painting; Tyler McKinney: 2nd in Digital Media.

Art Winners

Campbellsville University's Fine Arts Dept. hosted an open house showcasing their new BFA program in Visual Art. Local high school juniors & seniors were given a tour of the campus's visual art facilities & privied to a viewing of an award winning documentary. A juried art exhibit specifically for local high school students was also part of the day's activities. Several art students from Adair, Taylor, Marion, and Campbellsville High Schools were recognized and awards were given.

300 AR points

Students to reach 300 Accelerated Reader points are Alex Perkins, Skyler Moss, and Gabe Feldkamp. All three are 2nd graders at Adair County Primary Center.

Prospective students for the new Air and Space Academy at Adair County High School starting in 2015-2016: Trevor Cowan, Harrison Rich, Isaac Little, Samuel Willis, Dylan Pendleton and Zach Wilson attended the Wing Design Competition held at the Lake Cumberland Regional Airport in Somerset, Ky. this past Saturday. The new Air and Space Academy will fall under the Career Path of Aerospace, Adair County's 40th Career Path.

40th Career Path In Aerospace

Next year during the 2015-2016 school year, everything is set for Adair County High School to provide students with a 40th Career Path in Aerospace. With the excitement growing among students, Mr. Matt Willis decided to take prospective Air and Space Academy students to visit the Wing Design Competition at the Lake Cumberland Regional Airport in Somerset, Ky. this past Saturday, May 9.

Mr. Willis stated, "The students were inspired!" This is just another great reason Adair County Schools continue to be front runners in providing students with new and exciting Career Path options.

•Bookworm: Charles Murphy

Murphy estimates that he's read two books a week for as far back as he can remember. Assuming he started with that pace as a teenager, that means he has read more than 5,500 books in his life, with the number growing every few days.

"Some people are alcoholics or workaholics, well I'm a bookaholic, always have been," Murphy says. "My brother says that he's never read a book his whole life, but I couldn't imagine that."

Murphy's home could easily be mistaken for a welcoming library. He has shelves of books in almost every corner, on almost every wall. While cars sit in his driveway, his garage is home to shelves and tables packed full of books. Most people would be considered Civil War enthusiasts for owning three books about the conflict between the states. Murphy owns hundreds, enough to fill three bookcases. He has 21 bookcases just in the upstairs of his house. There's even a bookcase in the kitchen.

"I've got books all over the house, in the garage, just everywhere," Murphy says. "I used to have a whole lot more, but I get rid of some after I read them. I don't have enough room for all of them."

A retired custodian at Colonel William Casey and current substitute custodian at Adair County High School, Murphy's voracious scholarship hasn't gone unnoticed among his coworkers, both current and former. Adair Schools Supt. Alan Reed remembers many conversations about books he and Murphy enjoyed when Reed was principal at Casey.

"Some people might see Charles and not have a clue that he's probably read more classic works of literature than anyone in Adair County," Reed says. "He's probably more well-read than any employee in our school system. You never really know who might be the sharpest tool in the drawer."

In the late 1990s, when Reed was still at Casey, he asked Murphy in casual conversation what he would like to do, if he could do anything. Murphy said he'd like to go to college.

"He said it would be like a dream come true," Reed remembers. Knowing his impressive desire to read and learn, Reed and other faculty and staff at Casey arranged for Murphy to take a couple of classes at Lindsey Wilson College, free of charge. Another anonymous donor made it possible for him to take two more classes.

"He loved that opportunity," Reed says. "He'd come in early, go change from his custodian uniform into his college guy clothes, then come back and work late. He did pretty well. It was one of the more memorable humanitarian efforts I've ever been involved in."

Murphy remembers his college courses with fondness.

"I took two American history classes and two English classes," Murphy says. "It was almost 40 years after my regular schooling."

History and English were subjects for which Murphy already held a firm understanding. He has books on every U.S. president from Washington to Obama—filling up three bookcases in the upstairs of his house, which he affectionately calls "The Jungle." He especially likes reading about Eisenhower. He loves to study World War II. As for fiction, his passion spans across generations, from the classics, which he claims to have read "all of them," without hesitation or exaggeration, to current authors like James Patterson.

"I like Patterson, but I can't keep up with him," Murphy says. "I think he's got help."

Murphy is right. Patterson is notorious for employing ghostwriters to contribute heavily to his works, allowing him to "write" more than 10 novels per year. It does in fact take an entire team of authors to keep Murphy busy.

To quiz Murphy on authors is to receive a lesson in literature that would make an English professor either proud or jealous, depending on his or her credentials.

Vonnegut?

"Oh yeah, 'Slaughterhouse-five.' is okay. I've read a few more."

Giles?

"I love Janice Giles. I've read all of her books at least three times."

Steinbeck?

"Yep. 'Grapes of Wrath' might be my favorite book. It stands out above the rest, to me anyway."

Currently, with a full work schedule, Murphy says his reading has been reduced to "only" about 60 pages per day. He'll more than double that number this summer, when he has a lighter workload. He's been reading a lot of Christian fiction, and also reads the Bible on a daily basis.

"If he isn't working, he's reading," Murphy's wife, Marie, says. "He reads all the time."

Murphy has no idea how he came to love books as much as he does, but says his passion isn't diminishing with age.

"I really don't know why I've always read so much," Murphy says. "My parents weren't big readers, but I can't remember a time when I didn't read this much. I've always read. It takes me away from here to all kinds of places. It's just something I have to do. I have to read."

Coffey's Motocross Races for Jesus

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

As summer heats up across the nation, so do the engines of motocross racers everywhere. Hoards of individuals and teams throughout the region and country are taking to the track on weekends to compete at all levels, but one local team is placing their lofty finishes behind an even larger goal.

"Motocross is something we do as a family, it's allowed us to spend a lot of time together doing something that we all love," Stacey Coffey explains. "But we also use this time to ministers to others at the tracks."

Bro. Darrell Coffey often preaches at Daniel Boone MX in London, Ky. and occasionally speaks before other Sunday races at other tracks across the area. The Coffey team trailer is adorned with an invitation to stop by and pray with the family, and the Racing For Jesus theme is carried throughout both their race team and their ministry.

"God has blessed us with a great motocross family that we enjoy spending time with," Coffey adds of the numerous people they have met through the sport. "We've met a lot of new people along the way and we have some that we've grown very close to over the last few years."

On the track, the success began well before the warm weather arrived. During the winter indoor season, three of the team's racers captured top-three finishes, with 16-year-old Andrew Coffey taking home the championship in the age 12-16 age group and a third place finish in the 14-24 year old division; seven-year-old Kailey Young taking second place in the 50cc 4-8 year old multi-speed/shaft and nine-year-old Wesley Young capturing third in the 65cc 7-9 year old division. The youngest member of the team, two-year-old Ryan Young, took the winter off from riding his strider bike, but is ready for summer.

Andrew Coffey, 16, took first place honors in the 12-16 year old division and third place in the 14-24 year old group before capturing first place in the 250c class.

"We're very proud of the kids," Coffey says. "They have had some changes in bike sizes and moved up to harder classes with more competition, but they still had a great indoor season."

With spring in full bloom, the team took to the outdoor tracks, and the results remained just as strong. At the first event of the outdoor season, held at Daniel Boone MX in March, Andrew captured second place in both schoolboy divisions, Wesley grabbed first in the 65cc 7-9 year old class, and Kailey finished third in the 50cc 7-8 group.

In April, Andrew grabbed a first place finish in one schoolboy class as well as the 250c class, while Wesley also took top honors in both 65cc 7-9 and 65cc 7-11 age groups and Kailey finished third in both 50cc 7-8 and 50cc open stock classes.

This past weekend, the group returned to Daniel Boone MX looking to take the first step in qualifying for the Loretta Lynn National Championship competition in Hurricane Mills, Tenn. Andrew qualified for regionals in the 250c 12-16 limited division and the 450c division before his bike locked up during a second place run in another 250c contest.

"We just praise Jesus he wasn't hurt," Coffey says. "The next thing is to fix his bike, and then we're off to another qualifier."

After the qualifying stages are over, the team plans to travel to Regional competition in Buchanan, Mich. on June 6-7 and Millville, Minn. on June 20-21. If they advance, the team will take part in Nationals in August.

"All motocross riders have a dream to go to the Loretta Lynn's National Championships," Coffey explains. "Our prayer is for safety first, and then the opportunity to go on and compete there."

Anyone interested in helping out with race and travel expenses, or in learning more about the team or their ministry, can contact Bro. Darrell at 270-378-0457 or Stacey at 270-378-1721.

Kailey Young, age 7, is pictured here with her two bikes. Kailey recently finished second place in the 50cc 4-8 year old division and also earned third in the 50cc 7-8 year old classes.

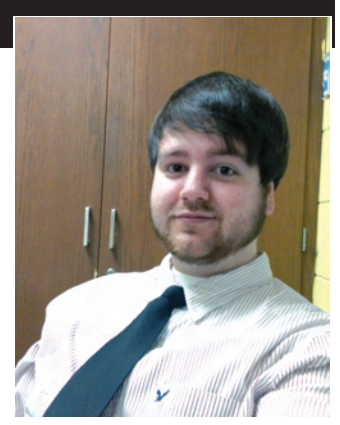

Nine-year-old Wesley Young, seen here with his two bikes, recently captured first place in two separate 65cc age divisions.

The Breakdown

Editorial by Blake Spires

In the world of competitive college athletics, recruiting never actually stops. There may be dead periods, no contact periods, or a time between the various camps, tournaments, games, events and recruiting trips, but the monster itself is never truly asleep. That monster became even more ever-present and terrifying this week, and yet the cause is a team that exists beyond the realm of college sports.

A group of California businessmen, led by Cerruti Brown, has launched the Las Vegas Dealers, a professional basketball team based in the namesake city, which will begin play in the 2015-2016 season. The objective of the team is to sign the nation's best high school and college players who are projected as first-round NBA draft picks, to play for them instead of spending their required year or additional years in college.

The team claims to be offering $700,000 per season for McDonald's All-American high school blue chippers, and $400,000 per season for collegiate underclassmen—both an incredible leap over the, uh, zero dollars they're allowed to make in college.

Brown says he wants to provide kids with an alternative to college hoops, where playing for free for a season before being allowed to enter the NBA Draft is restricting to the best young prospects in America. The team will apparently play 35 home games in Las Vegas, where various professional and semi-pro teams from across the world, namely Europe, will venture to play. On the road, the Dealers figure to make the trek across the ocean to do battle with those same European counterparts for an additional 15-game schedule.

The group claims to have a substantial financial backing and many have speculated about the sponsorships that may come from shoe and athletic apparel companies looking to sink their claws into the next NBA star as early as possible.

While I'm all for the idea that these youngsters should be allowed to make money off of their skills, I'm also incredibly skeptical about this venture. The team has apparently reached out to former Seton Hall, Manhattan and Florida International assistant coach Scott Adubato.

Who? Exactly. That's the coach who is going to convince top prospects and their families to put their draft stock and future earnings in his hands? That's the guy who is going to develop these elite young players for the next level? That's the guy who is going to stand on the sidelines against some of the top teams in Europe and guide a squad of teenagers through a 50 game schedule?

Beyond the pure business model problem--where you realize that Brown's claim of expecting five McDonald's All-Americans (at $700,000 per player) and a roster of $400,000 college underclassmen would make for a team salary well over $5 million a year before you even factor in team staff, facilities, travel and other expenses, will leave a ludicrously high bill for an entity that figures to generate little to no revenue at all—I just don't know how many top players will actually make the leap.

Sure, the money is incredible for an 18-year-old prospect whose other option in America is to play for free. I hope the venture at least puts enough pressure on the NCAA and forces a discussion or action where these kids can actually see a piece of the huge dollar amounts they generate. But for the time being, I'm not so sure that the risk is worth an initial $700,000 payment.

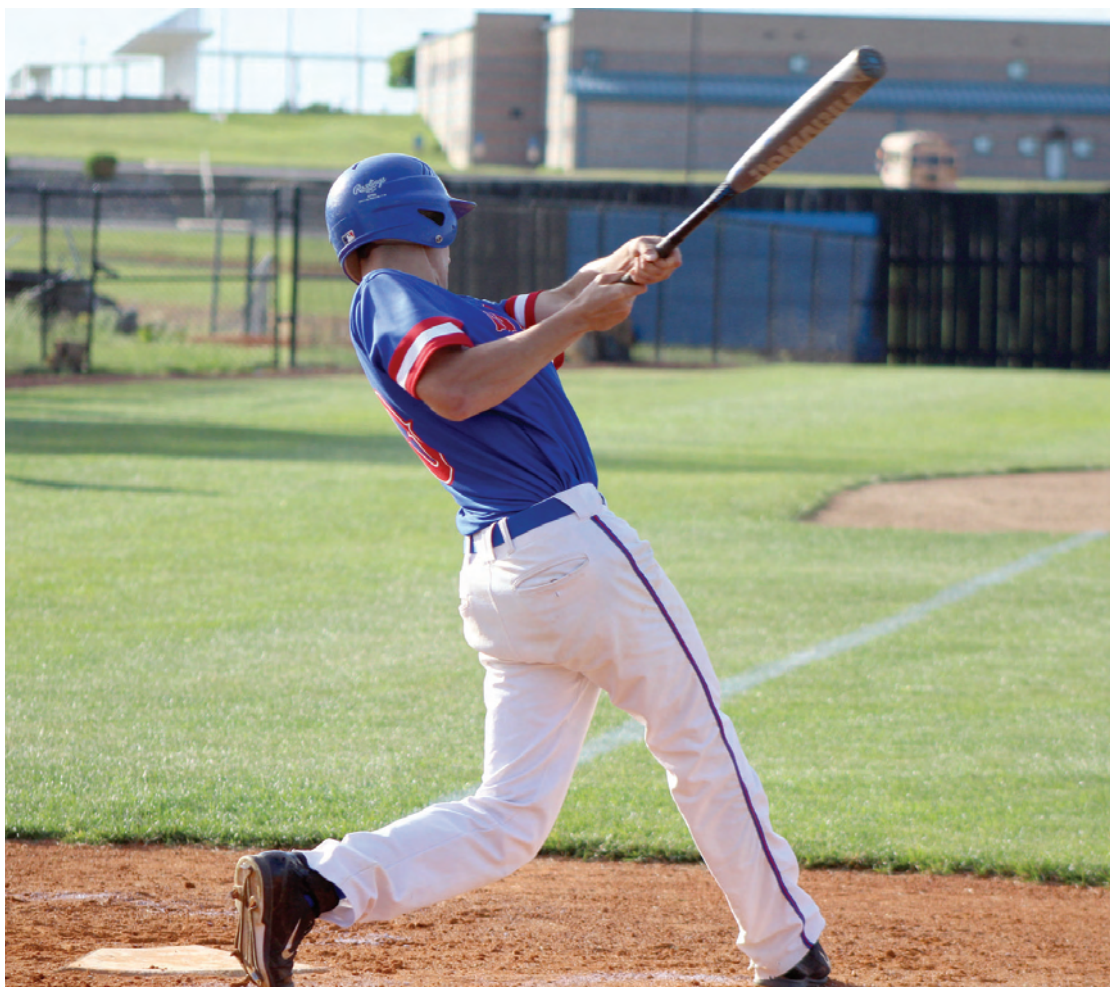

Obviously, the NBA is well aware of these players before they ever even choose a college to play for in their one season before heading pro, but there are also numerous examples of players who saw that once sure-fire stock take a serious hit the second they encountered real competition and exposure. For every LeBron James, there's a Josh Selby, and placing your development in the hands of a mid-level D1 assistant when John Calipari and Coach K are courtside at your high school games is a bold move.

There will undoubtedly be kids who take the money—you'd be nearly insane not to at that age—but there is already a proven method in place to reach the real paycheck, and even Europe offers similar dollar signs with a more stable infrastructure.

My prediction is that the players we see make the jump to this independent pro team are the ones that would have ultimately been forced to Europe based on grades or amateur status anyway, and that the real difference makers continue to showcase their talents for free for one season.

The Kevin Durant, Anthony Davis, Kyrie Irving tier of guys will keep spending a year on a college campus, but those second and third level guys from unfortunate backgrounds and with limited long-term perspective may very well choose to gamble their stock with the Dealers—at least for however long the team can stay afloat.

Eight Seniors Earn Victory For Adair, 5-3

Indians 5
Casey County 3

Adair County celebrated Senior Night Tuesday as they played host to Casey County in front of a jam-packed home crowd. Eight Indian seniors were honored before the game, and with some creative defensive positioning, Skipper Mike Mantooth was able to play each one the duration of the contest as the Tribe picked up the 5-3 win.

"Tonight was all about the seniors," Coach Mantooth said following the win. "I'm very proud of these kids and what they've been able to accomplish in their time here. Each and every one of them has invested in this program, and they're a special group. Tonight was a lot of fun and our team enjoyed every bit of it."

Seniors Tristan Beard, Daniel Franklin, Josh Hardin, Zach Hutchison, Mason Pyles, Chad Scholl, David Streeval and Dusty Todd were joined by junior Trevor Willis on the field, and despite the unusual alignment and new batting order, the Adair veterans found steady success from the start.

After a leadoff double to right for Casey County advanced to third on a ground out and scored on a chopper to first that was fielded brilliantly by Scholl, a strikeout by Hutchison settled the tempo and Adair set about taking control of the game.

A Willis single lead off the home half of the first, and after Streeval was hit by a pitch and a ball was misplayed by the Rebel catcher allowing both men to advance to scoring position, a sac fly from Hutchison tied the game at 1-1.

Hutchison was masterful in the second, striking out all three batters in a theme that would continue throughout the contest. The Adair ace struck out two more Casey County batters in the third, and in the bottom half, the Indians grabbed a lead they would never relinquish.

On the first pitch of the inning, senior slugger Dusty Todd tattooed a ball over the right field fence that narrowly missed damaging the scoreboard to put Adair ahead 2-1. Adair would add two more base runners in the inning, but a slip up on the paths and a fly out would end the threat.

A stellar backhand stop on one knee from Hardin at second highlighted the fourth inning defensive effort, and then the senior started off the bottom of the same inning with a single to third base. Scholl was hit by a pitch, and a Todd chopper down the line hit the glove of the first baseman, forcing the Indian centerfielder to hurdle both the ball and the arm of the defender to reach first safely. With the bases jammed, Willis blitzed a ground ball to the shortstop that also went off his glove, bringing Hardin home for the 3-1 lead.

Three more Hutchison strikeouts made quick work of the Rebels in the fifth, but in the sixth inning, a misplayed ball in the outfield started a cascade of errors that allowed the Rebels back in the game. With the leadoff runner on third, a passed ball brought the Casey County run home. After a ball slipped through the legs of the Adair infield for a double and another passed ball moved the Rebel runner to third, a chopper to shortstop allowed the run to

ACHS Softball Senior Profiles

Sarah Bault

Our look at ACHS Spring Sport Senior Athletes continues this week with four members of the Indian Tennis Program. First up this week is Sarah Bault.

Sarah, a four-year member of the program, says she had no experience with tennis prior to joining as a freshman.

"I had never played before, but tennis was quite a bit harder than I expected," she admits of her initial experience with the sport.

That realization serves as one of Sarah's most noteworthy life lessons that she has learned from playing tennis.

"Just because something looks easy, doesn't always mean that it is," she explains.

Sarah says that her favorite memories include playing alongside her friends for four years and all of the various bus rides taken as a team.

After graduation, Sarah plans to attend Murray State University where she will play volleyball, but says that she will continue playing tennis for fun. Before she leaves, however, she shares one important piece of advice with her younger teammates.

"Never hit Rex with a ball," she laughs, referring to Head Coach Randy Rexroat.

Kyndal Caldwell

The ACHS Spring Sport Senior Profiles continue with a second member of the Indian Tennis program, Kyndal Caldwell.

Kyndal is a three-year member of Indian Tennis, and follows a common theme of having no experience with the sport prior to joining the team.

"It was way more fun than I thought," she says of the biggest difference between what she expected and her actual experience.

Despite being new to the game, Kyndal took to tennis quickly, advancing at regional competition as a sophomore before being injured her junior season. In addition to that impressive on-court accomplishment, Kyndal names the bus rides with her teammates as her favorite memory with Indian Tennis.

After graduation, Kyndal will be attending Western KentuckyUniversity, and although her competitive tennis days are over, she says she will continue to play the sport for fun and use the dedication she learned from the game to help her reach her goals.

With a solid career behind her, Kyndal's advice to younger teammates is simple.

"You have to practice," she said. "Lots and lots of practice."

Ashley Farmer

This week's third ACHS Spring Sport Senior Spotlight shines on Ashley Farmer, another member of the Indian Tennis program.

Ashley, another member who was completely new to the sport before starting her four-year career at ACHS, says she came into the experience open to anything.

"I didn't really have an idea what to expect," she said of her venture into tennis. "It just seemed like a fun sport to try."

That expectation of fun is one that proved to be a reality, and Ashley says that playing alongside her best friend, Katelyn Moore, and singing both on the court and on bus rides home, have been some of her favorite memories with Indian Tennis.

When her time at ACHS ends, Ashley plans to attend Lindsey Wilson College to major in human services while also competing for the Blue Raider Volleyball program.

But before she moves on, Ashley has words of advice for her teammates or others thinking of joining the sport, and it's the same advice she gave herself when starting her own tennis career.

"Just have fun with it," she says.

Katelyn Moore

This week's spotlight on ACHS Spring Sport Senior athletes wraps up with the fourth senior member of Indian Tennis, Katelyn Moore.

Now in her third season with the program, Katelyn approached the sport with no prior experience, but says that once she understood how to play properly, it became a very enjoyable game.

On and off the court, Katelyn says her time with Indian Tennis has been full of laughs, including a time with teammate Sarah Bault accidentally hit a ball over the fence and into the cars of Katelyn and fellow teammate Ashley Farmer, as well as a trip to Fort Knox when teammate Beau Harrison was worried about eating at Waffle House while the bus was lost.

But even with all of the funny moments, Katelyn says her experience as a tennis player has taught her one particularly valuable lesson.

"Patience," she says when asked about her most important takeaway from her tennis career. "Patience is the key to success, no matter what you're learning or doing."

Katelyn plans to take that patience to Lindsey Wilson College in the fall, where she will major in business while playing volleyball for the Blue Raiders.

LADY INDIANS 3 GREEN COUNTY 9 (9 INNINGS)

Adair Softball honored a pair of seniors Tuesday night as third baseman Ashley Bragg and right fielder Nealia Baker were recognized for their Lady Indian careers before a matchup with Green County. The game itself was filled with drama, as an Adair rally in the seventh forced extra innings before a massive Green County surge put the game out of reach and Adair fell 9-3.

"This was a well-played game for eight innings," Coach Steve Martin said of the back-and-forth battle. "Bragg had a big offensive night and Baker reached base twice, so both seniors had a good outing. We had our chances to win it in the seventh after the comeback to tie, and then one big offensive inning from Green County spoiled the game."

Freshman Haley Ellison started in the circle for Adair, allowing just one hit and one walk in the first pair of innings. In the top of the third, however, two walks and a fielder's choice were joined by a duo of two-out singles to bring two Lady Dragons home for the 2-0 lead.

In the home half, Baker drew a leadoff walk and Bragg singled. After a fielder's choice and a fly out, Lauren Talley walked as well and Brooklyn Coomer singled to drive in a run. A Whitney Turner walk forced in the tying run, but Adair could do no further damage in the frame and the score remained knotted at 2 apiece.

An outfield error in the top of the sixth allowed a Green County batter to reach safely, and as it has all season, the error ultimately cost the Lady Indians as another pair of otherwise harmless singles brought home the visitor's third run.

In their final chance at the plate and trailing 3-2, Bragg's senior experience shone through as she notched a one-out single to give Adair a spark. Jordan Janes drew a walk, and Hannah Absher singled to load the bases for the Lady Indians. Coomer's second RBI single of the night tied the game again, and a sharply hit line drive to left from Turner was snagged for the final out, sending the game to extra innings tied at 3.

Neither squad did any damage in the eighth, but the top half of the ninth saw Green County open the floodgates with small-ball. Two bunts for hits started things off, and behind six singles, a double and a sacrifice fly, the Lady Dragons notched six runs in the frame to take the commanding 9-3 lead and the victory.

Junior MaKayla Matthews took the loss for Adair after coming on in relief to begin the fourth inning. Ellison earned the no decision for her three innings of work. At the plate, Brooklyn Coomer's two RBI outing led the way for Adair, while Ashley Bragg singled twice and fellow senior Nealia Baker drew a pair of walks. Hannah Absher added a single and both Jordan Janes and Lauren Talley drew walks as well for the Lady Indians.

CASEY COUNTY 4

The sprint to the finish line of regular season play continued Monday night as the Lady Indians traveled to Casey County for a doubleheader with the Lady Rebels. In game one, Adair grabbed an early lead and held on to preserve the win 6-4.

"This was a good game in all areas," Head Coach Steve Martin said of the performance. "[Starting pitcher MaKayla] Matthews had a couple of quick innings and also pitched into trouble and then worked out of it, so there were good signs both ways. Our defensive effort was improved, although a couple of lapses allowed their runs to score, and we had another good game from the top of our lineup."

That top of the Adair batting order went to work early in this one, as leadoff junior Hannah Absher tripled and scored on a single from Lauren Talley. Talley took second on the throw and after a Brooklyn Coomer single, a hit from senior Ashley Bragg scored two more for the 3-0 Adair lead.

Casey County added a run in the home half of the first, but Coomer singled again in the fourth, moved to second on a walk by Matthews, advanced to third on one fielder's choice and then scored again off the bat of Bragg's fielder's choice for a 4-1 advantage.

Absher tripled again in the sixth and Talley registered her second RBI of the contest, then in the seventh Nealia Baker walked, Jordan Janes singled and Absher was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Coomer drew a walk, scoring Baker, and giving Adair the commanding lead. Casey would add runs in their final effort at the plate, but Adair held on despite the bases loaded rally with one out to preserve the 6-4 victory.

Matthews took the win for the Lady Indians, while the Absher-Talley-Coomer trio went a combined 7-for-12 with five runs scored in the contest. Ashley Bragg added a pair of RBI as well, and the production at the top proved to be the difference in the contest as Adair captured game one.

LADY INDIANS 9
CASEY COUNTY 0

Adair would complete the sweep in game two behind a strong effort from freshman pitcher Haley Ellison and the continued hot streak of the top of the order, blanking Casey County 9-0 in the nightcap.

"This was a much better offensive effort," Martin said of the team's game two performance. "We were more focused and made good adjustments, and Ellison was strong in the circle, especially late."

The Lady Indians would strike early again in this one, as Hannah Absher singled, advanced to second and then scored on a Talley single in much the same way Adair had manufactured runs in game one.

Ellison, on the other hand, allowed just two base runners through the first four innings, and Adair broke the game open in their half of the fourth, serving as the home team on the scoreboard.

With two outs in the fourth, Absher and Talley singled, and a

come home, tying the contest at 3.

With two out in the sixth, Daniel Franklin battled an inside pitch down the first base line and into the outfield for a leadoff double that ignited the Indians. Todd drew a walk to join Franklin on base, and Willis fired another hard hit grounder that squeaked under the glove of a defender allowing both runs to score for the 5-3 lead.

The breathing room would be enough, as Streeval made a great play at third to throw out the leadoff runner in the top of the seventh and then Hutchison added two more to his whopping strikeout total to slam the door shut on the win, 5-3.

Hutchison picked up the victory, allowing just two earned runs on three hits while striking out 14 Casey County batters.

At the plate, Dusty Todd's homer joined a sac fly from Hutchison to compliment the pair of RBI from the game's lone junior, Trevor Willis, who went 4-for-4 with a double and a run scored. Daniel Franklin added a double and scored a run, while Josh Hardin's single and run scored rounded out the Indian offense in their Senior Night victory.

RUSSELL COUNTY 4

After an extra innings loss to their longtime rival to open the season, the Indians looked for a bit of long-awaited revenge Friday night as they traveled to Russell County. Instead, the Adair offense underwhelmed again, failing to plate a single run just as they had in the first matchup of the year, and behind a strong showing on the mound from Russell's Taylor Grider, the Indians fell 4-0.

"There's not a lot to say about this game," Head Coach Mike Mantooth said. "I'm disappointed in myself for not preparing us the right way, and our offensive approach was not very good, but hats off to their pitcher. He pitched it well and we never got anything going."

Adair's scoring chances were rare in this one, but the Tribe threatened in the first as Trevor Willis drew a walk and Tristan Beard singled to left. The pair advanced to scoring position on a double steal, but Grider's third strikeout of the inning left both Indians stranded.

In the home half of the first, Russell seized immediate control. Colton Back drewa leadoff walk and advanced to second on a check throw to first before senior Grant Best notched a base hit line drive to left to score Back from second. A ground ball hit by Bobby Williams was misplayed at second, and both runners were safe at the corners. Adair would pay for the mistake as Caleb Harris singled to right scoring Best. Harris took second on the throw, moved to third on a passed ball and then came home on a fly out that caught Adair sleeping for the 3-0 lead early.

After the early struggles, senior pitcher Dusty Todd settled in, notching a pair of strikeouts to end a Russell County threat on second and third. Todd would finish with seven strikeouts in the contest, including three in the fourth inning.

Grider was equally as overpowering for Russell, however, striking out five straight batters in the middle innings as the Adair bats proved to have no answer for his curveball or outside plate location.

Russell did more damage in the fifth, as Williams singled down the first base line and took second on a passed ball. Another walk as the pitch scooted by the catcher put runners on the corners and despite a stellar play by Zach Hutchison to dive and stop a hard hit grounder up the middle and keep it in the infield, the run scored from third to give Russell the 4-0 lead, and with no Adair runs scored in the contest, the Lakers swept the season series with the victory at home.

Dusty Todd took the loss for Adair, throwing all six innings and allowing three earned runs on eight hits and three walks while striking out seven. At the plate, Adair's scarce production was carried by 1-for-3 days from seniors Josh Hardin and Tristan Beard and junior Jacob Pooler.

mound, but the Indians again squandered scoring chances, ultimately falling to the Generals 2-1.

"Our approach was much better today," Mantooth said. "We just never got anything going. Everything we did offensively came with two outs, and we never managed to get that big two-out hit to score. We have to start before we're in that position, because it's a tough way to play when you get behind like that."

Shea Martin had the ball for Adair, and the junior did an excellent job of pitching his way out of tough spots and relying on his defense all afternoon. A leadoff single in the top of the first was advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt, but a fly out to left and strong throw from Clark Dean beat the Washington runner back to second for the double play.

The General's first run came on a failed double play attempt, however. After another great outfield play, this time from centerfielder Jacob Pooler, held the Washington County runners at the corners with one out, an attempted 4-6-3 went awry at second and the Generals took a 1-0 lead in the top of the third.

Adair, meanwhile, managed their first hit of the contest in the home half of the same frame when junior third baseman Brett Burton roped a double down the third base line. Burton was later thrown out heading for third on a ground ball, and after a Zach Hutchison single to center and a strikeout looking left the Indians empty handed despite a trio of base runners.

Adair would threaten again in the fifth on a Hutchison two-out triple, but the senior leadoff man was left stranded once more as the Indians were unable to break through.

In the top of the seventh, Washington led off with an infield hit deep at shortstop and a stellar bunt left a pair of runners on. Another bunt, this time with no throw to any bag an infield hit from Trevor Willis, because of a defensive lapse, Hutchison jolted one high and far, but the strong winds left the ball at the warning track for the fly out to end the game, 2-1.

Martin took the loss in the contest, despite allowing just two runs and one walk in seven full innings of work.

At the plate, Brett Burton's 2-for-3 day with a home run and a double led the Indians. Zach Hutchison went 2-for-4 with a triple, Clark Dean went 1-for-3 with a double and a walk, and Trevor Willis also added a hit for the Tribe.

Lady Indians Split Road Trip

By Blake Spires
Asst. Editor

Adair Softball continued their late season marathon of games to end last week, traveling to play four games in three days. Despite the workload, the Lady Indians held serve, splitting the four-game road trip with an up-and-down offensive display.

Lady Indians 12 Metcalfe County 3

After defeating Metcalfe County on Tuesday night at home, the Lady Indians traveled to the Lady Hornet's home turf Thursday for the third matchup of the season between the two squads. For the third time, Adair prevailed, this time with an offensive surge, 12-3.

"[Freshman Haley] Ellison pitched a full game for us and always seemed in control," Head Coach Steve Martin said. "It was good to score in five different innings and scatter the hits around, and we took advantage of their errors and scored with two outs, which are all things you like to see."

Adair started off strong, as Hannah Absher singled and advanced to second on an error to lead off. From there, junior Brooklyn Coomer drove her in for the 1-0 lead, but the Lady Indian scoring was just beginning.

Singles from seniors Ashley Bragg and Nealia Baker with a third single from Ellison began the second. Two fielder's choices followed with no runs scoring, but an error on a ball put in play by Lauren Talley allowed all three Lady Indians to come home. A Coomer walk, and RBI singles from MaKayla Matthews and Whitney Turner pushed the lead to 6-0 after two.

Adair added another run in the fourth after Absher doubled and scored and picked up one more in the fifth as Jordan Janes tripled to score Baker. Metcalfe added three runs in the bottom of the fifth, but the Lady Indians tacked on four more in the top of the seventh on singles from Janes, Absher and Matthews for the 12-3 win.

Ellison grabbed the victory for Adair, while MaKayla Matthews went 4-for-5, Hannah Absher 3-for-4 with two runs scored and Jordan Janes went 2-for-4 with two runs scored to lead the Adair offense.

"It's always a plus when you get get an offensive punch from the top, bottom and middle of your lineup," Martin added of the 12-run showing.

Lady Indians 0 North Hardin 3

Adair ventured all the way to North Hardin High School Friday night, but saw a much different offensive display against a much stronger pitching foe. After a 9-5 win over the Lady Trojans the previous Friday, Adair managed just one hit in a 3-0 loss.

"We weren't ready offensively," Coach Martin said of the loss. "Only having one hit won't win you many games. It was a good high school ball game, but you can't expect to win with that kind of offensive effort."

Junior Brooklyn Coomer managed the only hit of the contest for Adair in the top half of the first, but the three other Lady Indians struck out—a theme that would plague Adair all game.

Adair struck out 12 times in total on Friday night, and with four consecutive two-out singles in the home half of the fifth resulting in three runs, North Hardin had more than enough run support for the 3-0 win.

MaKayla Matthews took the loss despite allowing just six hits in the contest, while Coomer's single was the lone source of offense for the Lady Indians on the day.

Lady Indians 15 Southwestern (Pulaski) 4 (5 Innings)

The Lady Indians traveled to Russell County Saturday morning to take part in the annual Sarah Roberts Hart Tournament, an event held to raise scholarship money for Russell County students entering the medical field. After Friday night's ice-cold performance, the Adair bats were red-hot once again, as they trounced the Warriors 15-4.

"I was happy with this offensive showing after such a bad outing Friday night," Martin said of the 15-runs. "We were patient and took walks with the bases loaded, which is always important."

Southwestern grabbed control early as a pair of errors and two singles allowed the Warriors to score two unearned runs for the 2-0 lead.

Adair would quickly remedy the situation, however, as Hannah Absher scored a run in the first and the Lady Indians added four more as Ashley Bragg walked and Nealia Baker and Jordan Janes singled before an Absher triple cleared the bases before scoring from third on an errant throw for the 5-2 lead.

Seven Lady Indian walks in the bottom of the third, coupled with hits from Jera Kessler, Janes and Bragg notched another eight runs to push Adair ahead 13-2.

A leadoff home run from the Warriors and a throwing error allowed two runs to score, but the difference was only cosmetic as Adair tacked on two more runs in the fourth to cement the 15-4 win after just four innings.

MaKayla Matthews picked up the win for Adair in the circle. Hannah Absher's four runs led the Adair scoring, while Jordan Janes added three of her own to help the Lady Indians total 15 in the contest.

Lady Indians 1 Russell County 6

Saturday's second game saw the Lady Indians square off with the hosting Lady Lakers of Russell County. A quality opponent coupled with the sweltering heat appeared to dull some of Adair's edge as they managed just one run in the 6-1 loss.

"This game showed our improvement, but their two big innings were still aided by our miscues," Coach Martin said. "It was very hot, and we had just played, and I think that showed a bit in our focus and emotion. We weren't able to string things together."

Hannah Absher continued her torrid weekend, singling to lead off then advancing to secondon an error and scoring on a Brooklyn Coomer RBI single. Adair would manage just five more base runners all game long, however.

Meanwhile, with two outs in the third, a pair of singles and a misplayed pop up allowed a two RBI triple to put the Lady Lakers ahead. They would never look back. In the fourth, a leadoff walk, a double and another pair of singles, combined with another Adair error, put four more runs on the board for the home team, securing the 6-1 victory.

Haley Ellison took the loss for Adair as the Lady Indians fell to 10-13 on the season. Offensively, Brooklyn Coomer's RBI provided the only run, while Hannah Absher reached twice and scored. Jordan Janes also reached based twice, and both Nealia Baker and Ellison recorded singles in the loss.

double from Brooklyn Coomer drove in both runners. A Whitney Turner walk was followed by an Ashley Bragg single that scored another run, and then a double from Ellison brought Bragg home as well to put Adair ahead 5-0.

The Lady Indians added two more in the fifth after a Janes single and Absher double were plated by a Coomer double, and then another pair of runs in the sixth as Kelsie Keltner reached on a fielder's choice, Linsey Grant reached on an error, and Absher doubled to drive in the pair for the 9-0 final score.

Ellison picked up the win, allowing just three Lady Rebels to reach base in the contest. Offensively, a more balanced effort was still headlined by a 10-for-14, five run showing from the top of the order. Ashley Bragg went 3-for-4, with an RBI and a run of her own scored, and Jordan Janes tacked on a single and run scored as well as Adair improved to 12-13 on the season.

There will be a men's softball league at the Jim Blair Community Rec Center, 901 Hudson Street, Columbia, Ky., that will be starting on Tuesday, 26 May, 2015.
